

Robert Travers Bio:

Robert Travers is an entrepreneur, sales consultant and commercial solar specialist. Today Rob directs solar for numerous organizations across the Tri-state, while acting as a limited partner and director of commercial solar and partnerships at Accord Power Inc; a 14+ year New York City and New Jersey based turn-key commercial solar developer.

As a commercial solar sales leader, Robert currently manages over 200+ million in active commercial pipeline, made up of personal and partner clients. Robert is responsible for educating and advising all partners, and their clients, on how to best assess a solar development by leveraging unique and complex, state by state - utility by utility, solar programs and incentives, in order to gain confidence with pursuing a solar development.

Accord Power Inc, where Robert has supported in growing the team's partner and client base, over the past 5 years, is an award winning local commercial developer who delivers quality and excellence in service to their clients. Accord specializes in turnkey commercial and industrial rooftop solar development, as well as carports and ground mounts. Recent and active developments today include, the four Brooklyn libraries, 120 NYCHA (New York City Housing Authority) buildings, and a project in the making for the past 3 years, the Brooklyn Logistic Center Carport. Coined "BLC" the extremely unique and complex project will feature one of Con-ED's largest single site carports, weighing in at 3 MW, that will be constructed and sit 70+ feet in the air atop the rooftop parking lot.

When Mr Travers is not working, he enjoys being a husband and father of 2 wonderful children, who joyously consume all of his free time. Hobbies include, golf, hockey, poker, chess, ideating, surfing, snowboarding, fishing, crabbing, photography, baking, video editing, frisbee, beach days, hiking, and camping.

Mr Travers holds a BS in Entrepreneurship & Small business Management from Quinnipiac University in Hamden, Connecticut. Robert grew up in Longmeadow, Massachusetts and spent 10 years in the San Francisco Bay area before returning back to the east coast in 2021.
